RENEW YOUR LIBRARY BOOKS BY PHONE OR ONLINE

Media, PA – What do you do if your library book is due tomorrow, but you can’t make it to the library to renew it? Renew online or by telephone, of course!

The Delaware County Library System (DCLS) invites you to call 610-892-DCLS (3257) to renew your library items through our automated telephone service, any time of the day or night. Have your DCLS library card and the items you wish to renew ready, and enter your library card number and the barcode numbers on your items when prompted. The telephone system will confirm the renewal in a matter of seconds.

You can also renew your library items online at www.delcolibraries.org. On the blue menu, click on “Library Catalog/Renew.” Once you enter the catalog, click on “My Millennium.” Enter your name and library card number, and click the “Submit” button. You can view items you have checked out as well as renew items online.

Some items may not be renewed, such as feature films or items for which another patron is waiting. Items may be renewed only once, and the renewal period begins the day it is renewed.

Green bookmarks with detailed instructions about renewing by telephone and online are available at DCLS member public libraries.

DCLS is an agency of county government. For a list of our 26 member libraries, see www.delcolibraries.org.
